Dear Ms. Foster:

Thank you for your nice letter concerning my talk to the Jefferson students about CIA. Intelligence is a fit subject for public discussion. I thought you and the students were attentive and interested in the subject. No speaker can ask for more.

Thank you for asking that I come to your school. I wish you and your associate teachers, and the students of Jefferson all the best.

Faithfully yours,

E. H. Knoche

Dear Mr. Knoche,

My students and I both wish to express our thanks for your taking time to speak to Jefferson students about the CIA last week.

One of my teaching goals is to expose students to "real" actors in a "real world" to the greatest extent possible. Your remarks were a stepping stone towards reaching that goal.

Personally, I have the greatest respect for the people whom I know who work for the Agency but your press has not been good. The CIA is fortunate to have a public spokesman like you who knows how to generate respect for the genuine need for intelligence work by his own ease with the truthful handling of tough questions: Kids always spot a phoney and they know a nice person when they see one.

You are that and your remarks helped reverse the CIA's bad image for a number of students and teachers.

Next year, I will be teaching both U.S. Government and U.S. History. I certainly hope that I can persuade you to return to Jefferson again
when I do my foreign policy unit which I call "Big Power Diplomacy."

Thank you again for sharing your time, your expertise, and yourself with us.

Sincerely,

Ann M. Foster

Dear Mr. Stack:

Thank you for your invitation of 25 April on behalf of the Convention Committee of the Colorado Bar Association. I would be most pleased to come to Colorado to address the luncheon meeting for the attorneys and their spouses on Friday, October 14.

It has been our practice to consider such appearances as an official rather than a personal matter. Accordingly, the question of reimbursement of expenses does not arise. In any event, please feel free to be in touch with my Executive Assistant, [redacted] in the coming months insofar as travel plans and accommodations are concerned.

Again, thank you for the invitation and I am looking forward to meeting you in Colorado Springs.

Faithfully yours,

E. Henry Knoche, Deputy Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Headquarters, Central Intelligence Agency
Langley, VA 20505

Dear Mr. Knoche:

STAT On behalf of the Convention Committee of the Colorado Bar Association, I would like to formally extend to you an invitation to address our organization at its annual convention in Colorado Springs in October of this year. I have previously been in touch with [redacted] of your organization who in turn, I believe, has talked to Paul Walsh about this engagement. More specifically, we would like you to address the luncheon meeting for the attorneys and their spouses on Friday, October 14, 1977.

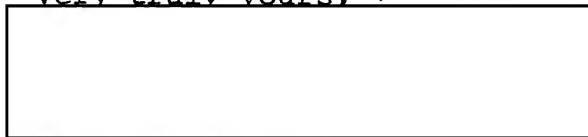

The convention is being held at the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, and on behalf of the Bar Association, we would like to extend to you and your wife an invitation to stay at the Hotel and enjoy its facilities during the course of the convention which starts on Thursday and ends on Sunday.

I believe there may be some direct flights between Colorado Springs and Washington, D.C. However, in the event that this is not the case, there would be two alternatives you might wish to consider. One, of course, would be to fly to Denver and make arrangements for a connecting flight to Colorado Springs or, in the alternative, to deplane at Denver and hire a car to drive to the Springs which is a little more than an hour and fifteen-minute ride from Stapleton Airport, mostly on interstate highway. The drive from Denver to the Springs is a pleasant one as long as weather conditions are satisfactory. The route of the interstate parallels the front range of the Rockies and does not involve any mountain driving as such. Whichever mode of travel you desire, the Bar Association, of course, will reimburse your expenses.

We would appreciate hearing from you at your earliest convenience advising us whether you can accept this engagement and setting forth your travel plans and needs for accomodations. In anticipation of what I hope will be your affirmative response to this letter, I would like to express our thanks and gratitude for coming to Colorado and look forward to hearing you speak in October.

Very truly yours, ✓
